

UK government publishes paper on future of judicial cooperation in civil matters

Yesterday, the UK government published new paper on the future of judicial cooperation in civil matters. It sets out the UK's vision for the handling of civil legal cases if no Brexit deal can be reached.

The full paper is available here.