

German Publication: The Consumer Contract in Private International Law and International Civil Procedure Law

A new thesis concerning consumer contracts has been published in Germany in June 2006: Kathrin Sachse, Der Verbrauchervertrag im Internationalen Privat- und Prozessrecht. In this thesis, structure and limits of the international consumer contract are analysed against the background of European law and comparative law. On the basis of the different approaches to define the term "consumer", a proposal for a uniform concept of "international consumer contract" is developed.

More information can be found on the publisher's website.