

French Code of Private International Law

Michel Attal, who lectures and practices in Toulouse, and Julie Bauchy, a doctoral student at Toulouse I University, edited the first French code of private international law last year.

The book is not an official code but rather an academic enterprise which purports to gather all applicable rules (statutes, international treaties, European regulations and directives) of private international law.

More information on this useful pocketbook is available here.