

The application of foreign law under constitutional and treaty-based review (Paris, 23 September 2016)

In cooperation with the Centre de droit privé fondamental of the University of Strasbourg and the Centre d'études sur l'efficacité des systèmes juridiques continentaux of the University of Reims Champagne-Ardenne, the Société de législation comparée organises an international conference entitled:

The application of foreign law under constitutional and treaty-based review

(Le droit étranger à l'épreuve des contrôles de constitutionnalité et de conventionnalité)

Scholars and practitioners in the fields of private international law from different backgrounds will meet in Paris to identify new models of control in the application of foreign law within Western legal systems and compare them with a view to understanding the place of the Otherness today in Europe and in Americas.
