

PhD position at the University of Antwerp

The University of Antwerp is seeking a PhD candidate for their research group “Personal Rights and Property Rights”. Although you might not guess so at first sight, Private International Law is part of this research group, which focuses on private law and its international aspects.

Candidates should submit a research proposal, which should fit into the research of the group (see <https://www.uantwerpen.be/en/research-groups/personal-rights-and-property-rights/>). The deadline is 30 september 2018.

The successful candidate will be funded for a four-year period, from 1 February 2019 to 31 January 2021.

For more information and the application procedure, see <https://www.uantwerpen.be/en/jobs/vacancies/ap/2018bapfrechex262/>