

The new property regime regulations: Conference in Innsbruck (Austria) on 16/17 November 2018

On 16 and 17 November 2018, the University of Innsbruck will host a conference on the Regulations on matrimonial property and on the property consequences of registered partnerships which will enter into force on 29 January 2019. The conference, organised by Stefan Arnold (University of Münster) and Simon Laimer (University of Innsbruck), aims to discuss the new rules and their implications for the further development of the law.

The conference will be held in German. Participation is free of charge, but prior registration is required. The flyer can be found here.