

Virtual Workshop on December 1: Marc-Philippe Weller on Managing the Pandemic Through Private International Law

On Tuesday, December 1, the Hamburg Max Planck Institute will host its sixth monthly virtual workshop in private international law at 11:00-12:30. Marc-Philippe Weller (Heidelberg University) will speak, in German, about the topic

„Nationalismus, Territorialismus und Unilateralismus: Pandemiebewältigung durch IPR?

(“Nationalism, Territorialism, Unilateralism: Managing the Pandemic Through Private International Law”?)

The presentation will be followed by open discussion. All are welcome. More information and sign-up here.

This is the sixth such lecture in the series, after those by Mathias Lehmann in June, Eva-Maria Kieninger in July, Giesela Rühl in September, Anatol Dutta in October, and Susanne Gössl in November. Starting in January 2021, we plan to alternate between German and English, in order to enable more interested scholars to participate. We found a special speaker to start us off in English – stay tuned!

If you want to be invited to these events in the future, please write to veranstaltungen@mpipriv.de