AJIL Unbound symposium: Global Labs of International Commercial Dispute Resolution

The American Journal of International Law's online publication, AJIL Unbound, has recently published a symposium on the changing face of international commercial dispute resolution around the world. The symposium, entitled Global Labs of International Commercial Dispute Resolution, includes works by scholars from China, Hong Kong, Europe, UK, US, and Australia.

The contributions consider the emergence of new legal hubs, international commercial courts, and arbitral courts around the world, and their implications for global commercial dispute resolution.

The contributions include:

Introduction by Anthea Roberts

Experimenting with International Commercial Dispute Resolution by Pamela K. Bookman and Matthew S. Erie

The Resolution of International Commercial Disputes – What Role (if any) for Continental Europe? by Giesela Rühl

Conservative Innovation: The Ambiguities of the China International Commercial Court by Julien Chaisse and Xu Qian

The International Commercial Dispute Prevention and Settlement Organization: A Global Laboratory of Dispute Resolution with an

Asian Flavor by Guiguo Wang andRajesh Sharma

International Commercial Courts in the United States and Australia: Possible, Probable, Preferable? by S.I. Strong

Global Laboratories of Third-Party Funding Regulation by Victoria Shannon Sahani