

Virtual Book Launch - Blurry Boundaries of Public and Private International Law: Towards Convergence or Divergent Still?

Further to the announcement of the release of the book edited by Dr Poomintr Sooksripaisarnkit and Dharmita Prasad entitled Blurry Boundaries of Public and Private International Law: Towards Convergence or Divergent Still (Springer 2022) earlier in this portal, the editors of the book are organising a virtual book launch to engage further in conversations surrounding the themes of the book.

The virtual book launch will be held on 29th April 2022 and it is to be hosted by Jindal Global Law School, O.P Jindal University.

It features strong panel of experts including Professor Alex Mills (University College London), Rishi Gulati (Owen Dixon Chambers East), Dr Veronica Ruiz Abou-Nigm (Edinburgh Law School), Dr Ivana Kunda (University of Rijeka) and Professor Ralf Michaels (Max Planck Institute for Comparative and International Private Law).

Please refer to the poster below of the event for details. To register: <https://us06web.zoom.us/meeting/register/tZwvduyrrzIuGNVE-U8VT1DthK0SZV0BudZV>

Blurry Boundaries of Public and Private International Law
Towards Convergence or Divergent SOI?!

About the Book

This book examines intersections and discusses interactivity between public international law and private international law. The contributions are arranged in four themes – Public international law and private international law: historical and theoretical considerations of the boundary demarcation of private international law by public international law instruments; evaluation of process, problems, and effectiveness; Case studies of interactivity between public international law and private international law; Future trends on the relationship between public international law and private international law. The ultimate aim of this book is to analyse whether there has been a decline in boundary convergence or they are still divergent in actual.
