

Virtual Workshop on January: Guangjian Tu on China's Ambition to Build up the Highland for International Commercial Litigation

On Tuesday, January 10, 2022, the Hamburg Max Planck Institute will host its 29th monthly virtual workshop Current Research in Private International Law at 11:00 a.m. - 12:30 p.m. (CET). Guangjian Tu (University of Macau) will speak, in English, about the topic

China's Ambition to Build up the Highland for International Commercial Litigation: Some Recent Attempts.

The presentation will be followed by open discussion. All are welcome. More information and sign-up here.

If you want to be invited to these events in the future, please write to veranstaltungen@mpipriv.de.