

Children-parents in the EU: Stakeholders' meeting 13 and 14 March

The Unipar project partners are organising a stakeholders' meeting on the EU's proposal on filiation/parenthood, domestic private international law, human and children's rights, and EU law. The meeting will be held in Brussels on 13 and 14 March, and will be livestreamed for persons who wish to follow.

The programme is available on the Unipar website. There you will also find the registration link for online participation.

Unipar is co-funded by the European Union. It is a two-year project that comments on the EU's proposal on private international law on filiation, but also investigates the larger context of filiation/parenthood across borders. The first outcome is a report on the impact on parentage of the EU acquis.
